

Land Investment Expo Invites Dennis Gartman to Revisit Predictions on Oil, Ag Real Estate

Published on Nov 16, 2015 by Peoples Company

Image not found or type unknown

The Land Investment Expo presented by Peoples Company will welcome Dennis Gartman, editor and publisher of The Gartman Letter, back to the main stage on January 29, 2016.

Mr. Gartman, whose candid thoughts on oil prices and land values filled the ears of attendees during the most recent Land Expo, will return to cover both the domestic and world economy while providing an update on his predications from 2015.

Mr. Gartman's lectures on the global capital markets have been heard around the world as he makes regular media appearances to discuss commodities and other topics central to investing and agriculture with outlets such as CNBC, ROB-TV and Bloomberg television.

His clients include leading banks, mutual funds, hedge funds, energy trading companies, grain trading companies and broking firms. He has produced The Gartman Letter on a full-time basis for nearly 30 years, and he continues to do so today.

The Land Investment Expo offers a day full of prominent keynote speakers, educational breakout sessions and networking events for those either investing in or interested in investing in agricultural real estate.

Register now to join the more than 650 attendees from around the Midwest and the nation who will gather in West Des Moines, Iowa – the eve of the Presidential Caucuses – to learn from, interact, debate and network with one another for an entire day.