

Peoples Company Announces 2022 Top Achievement Awards

Published on Feb 2, 2023 by Peoples Company

Peoples Company, a full-service land transaction and management business licensed in all major agricultural regions, announced its top achievement award winners for 2022. The winners were revealed and presented with a plaque at the company's annual holiday party in January.

Among the achievement awards are the company's top producers for 2022 as well as the highly coveted Peoples Company 'A' Player of the Year Award.

"Peoples Company is committed to having the best people in the land business," said company Vice President Molly Zaver. "'A' Players are self-directed, self-managed, empowered, highly competent, highly productive, highly professional, and committed to the team. They are 100% committed to Peoples Company's culture, core values, and outstanding production. 'A' Players are naturally sought out by their peers as a 'go-to' source for information, consulting, and advice because they are recognized as leaders in their area of expertise."

As such, this award is voted on by fellow employees and associates to determine which person in the company best exemplifies these characteristics. After all the votes were in for 2022, Peoples Company REALTOR® Travis Smock based in Independence, IA, was named 'A' Player of the Year.

Other award winners also recognized that evening include Adam Crist, from Mineral Point, WI, as the top producer in the Brokerage division. In the Land Management division, the award went to George Baird from Arlington, TN. For the Appraisal division, the top producer was Rick Sommers based out of the Marlette, MI, office.

“What's most exciting is that all three of our top producers for 2022 are team members not based in Iowa, which is a true testament to Peoples Company's growth and national reach,” said company President Steve Bruere.
